ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a novel method for the identification of candidate proteins in pathogens useful as anti-infectives and more particularly, the present invention describes a novel computational method involving calculation of several sequence attributes and their subsequent analysis lead to the identification of some outlier proteins in different pathogens which are either vaccine candidates, diagnostics or drug targets and also are provided the genes encoding the candidate proteins.